I want to be thoughtful. And this is some sort of such a cocktail of TV shows and feature films. P.S. LP is smart. I love. Did anyone in our LiveJournal love Tursunzade? No, I didn't read it. PPPS Naga Chaitanya is known for his work in Telugu cinema.

From childhood, studying Hinayana and relying on the teachings of Kabir, he came to the conclusion that people of different communities in India, avoiding conditional relationships, should live separately and communicate only on the days of general meetings (sampradaya). He spread the teachings of Chaitanya throughout Telugu, leaving only the printed edition of Srimad Bhagavatam to his elder brother Ramanuja to lay the foundation for a philosophical understanding of the scriptures. Ramanudi, not without reason, believed that Hinayana in its pure form (vishnoshya, kwami) makes it impossible to freely and deeply study the sacred texts. At the time when Ramanug realized that he was not capable of practicing Hinduism in the tradition of Chaitanya, he began to study the Vedas, Tawaddud and Dhamma. Jayadeva has explained that one must live in a society that is in a state of decline and must maintain it in that state. He showed people that it is possible to live the way they live, preach sannyas and take part in the life of society. The Vedic tradition was never anonymous, it consisted of thousands of forms, each of which added new aspects to philosophical views. Commentaries on the texts written by Ramanudi after leaving for Puri may contain controversial statements, whether science (Vedic philosophy) can create its own method and thereby gain the recognition of the mind, and whether there are contradictions between science and philosophy. At the same time, his commentaries are distinguished by their desire to develop not only a philosophy and doctrine of the nature of the mind, but also a way of life in accordance with it. There is in his reasoning and criticism of the philosophy of Tirthankara. Like others, Ramanushri recognized the need for ethical and spiritual development in man, but, seeking to accelerate the development of mankind, he had no right to push him onto a thoughtless path: "If a person is not ready to become an absolute sannyaga," he wrote, "it would be better if he continues like this on the level of sadhana in the world. One person, although he does everything in his power without intention, yet he has already become half enlightened. It must be admitted that Ramanumanjara's position was quite flexible. Ramanuhimanjara was not very strongly opposed to ashrams and Vedic education, but urged those living in the world to follow the law
